

WHAT IS THE MISSION OF NAFP?

It is the mission of the Nebraska Affiliate of the International Association for Food Protection to promote the objectives of IAFP - and to provide local members with a forum to encourage improvement of Food Safety and Quality by providing a platform to share knowledge, a vehicle to foster education and various networking opportunities.

WHO ARE THE MEMBERS OF THE NAFP?

NAFP members include food safety professionals from every facet of the food industry: Meat and poultry, Bakery, Brewery, Fruits and Vegetables, Processed Meats, Dairy, Snack Foods, Foodservice, Beverage, Fish and Prepared Foods. In addition, our members represent all the supply and service businesses such as sanitation supplies and equipment, as well as municipal, local, state, and federal governments, academia, research and testing laboratories, and public health.

WHAT CAN NAFP DO FOR ITS MEMBERS?

- Become a resource for small business'
- Coordinate Regional Educational Workshops
- Share and Exchange Food Safety and Quality Information
- Provide a common forum for those associated with food safety in the food industry
- Enable those interested in food safety to exchange ideas, experiences and information
- Sponsor and organize meetings to inform members of new and improved methods in the safe hygienic production, transportation, processing and sale of food products
- Recognize those making extraordinary contributions to food safety

LONG TERM GOAL OF NAFP:

Our long term goal is to become a resource for all local businesses and individuals involved in the safety and quality of our local food system. From farm to fork, we want to become a great network for all who support the food chain.
